Management's Responsibility for the Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of these financial statements in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America; this includes the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

Auditor's Responsibility

Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit. We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free from material misstatement.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. The procedures selected depend on the auditor's judgment, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity's preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control. Accordingly, we express no such opinion. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements.

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion.

Note 2 - Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Accounting Method. The financial statements are prepared on the accrual basis of accounting. This method is in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. The accrual basis of accounting recognizes revenue when earned rather than when paid and subsequently recognizes expenses when incurred rather than when paid. Use of the accrual method of accounting creates accounts for receivables, prepaids, and payables.

Tax Exempt Status. Care House, Inc. is exempt from income taxation under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code. A form 990 is filed annually.

Cash and Cash Equivalents. Care House, Inc. considers all highly liquid investments with maturity of one year or less when purchased to be cash equivalents.

Cash Investments. Cash investments are composed of general savings accounts and money market accounts and as such are readily available. These type accounts are carried at cost plus earned interest and the interest income is recorded in the period earned.

Recognition of assets and depreciation policy. Donated land is recorded at its appraised value on the date of donation. The donated building is recorded at its appraised value on the date of donation plus the purchase cost of improvements and additions. Purchased land and buildings are recorded at cost. Depreciation is charged to income over the estimated useful lives of the assets using accelerated and straight-line methods. Estimated useful lives are 31 - 39 years for buildings and 5 - 10 years for furniture, fixtures, and equipment.
